

Voyage of Discovery

Design is a path of self-realization and a journey of exploration. We communicate and integrate through the space. By extending the experience of the five senses, we amplify and create the fluidity and spaciousness of space, which continues the sunshine, air, vision, and imagination.

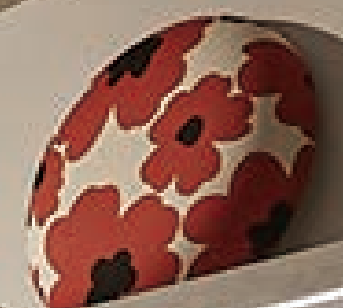

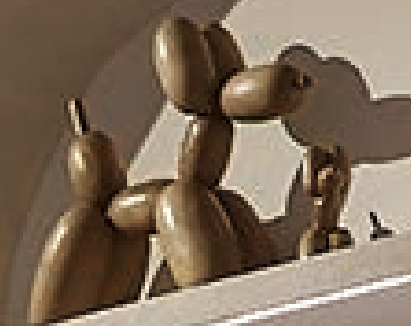

When we become the users of a 90-square-meter space ourselves, the office space becomes a true expression of our heart, with attitudes towards design and life, and an absolute visual beauty reflected in it.

Abandoning the concealment and closure of general office spaces, breaking the boundaries of vision, combining two fields, becoming a fascinating showcase display, and also accommodating the design team's studio. By flexibly transforming the original design and workspace, with a clever combination of wooden tones and artistic paint, the carefully displayed furniture and home accessories are elegantly transformed into a sense of belonging.

Compared to the traditional office with standardized partitions and desks that separate people, this workspace creates an unlimited working environment through scenario design, allowing people to feel comfortable and at ease as if they were at home.

The various home decorations and furniture, such as cabinets, dining tables and chairs, and lighting, forms an interesting contrast with the space rather than being displayed statically. This allows colleagues to feel the comfort of work integrated into their lives, breaking the existing frameworks and harvesting seeds of creativity, while visitors can catch a glimpse of what the future of life might look like.

The space is decorated with Nordic-style furniture, merged with British and American industrial loft style, revealing an attitude that values inspiration.

The Nordic home style, which emphasizes simplicity, is used to create a relaxed, refined, and well-organized workspace that can also be used for commercial purposes. The high-ceilinged loft is not only a functional extension, but also adds fun and imagination to the space, giving it different expressions depending on the different light sources.

Reduce environmental resource consumption through weight reduction renovation, with the user as the focus, and leave moderate blank space in the space. Like urban travelers moving in space, experiencing a variety of styles across national borders, and finding the most comfortable posture in the present moment.
